

The Chicago Daily Tribune.

VOLUME 29.

CHICAGO, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1876.

NUMBER 167.

STATE SAVINGS INSTITUTION.

$500,000 CAPITAL,
$110,000-SURPLUS.

The Oldest and Largest Savings Bank in the Northwest. Pays 6 per cent interest per annum on deposits, semi-annually, on the 1st of January and 1st of July. All deposits made during the first three days of a month new interest for the month.

THE SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Enough to cover half the losses paid by an insurance company in the last year. The DAVIS & REQUA have over TWENTY YEARS' EXPERIENCE in Insurance in Chicago, and have always represented companies which paid 100% on the premiums. They are the only ones who pay losses by fire that they paid over $1,100,000 within 60 days without any litigation or trouble. Applications for Insurance may be made at the Office, 125 LaSalle-Street. The Agency has no solicitors.

SHIRTS.

INSURANCE.

There's Millions In It!

DAVIS & REQUA'S INSURANCE AGENCY,

155 LA SALLE-ST.

1876.

IMPERIAL & NORTHERN INS. CO., LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA.

AMERICAN CASUALTY CO., NEW YORK.

NIAGARA FIRE & MARINE INS. CO., BOSTON.

PHILADELPHIA MARINE INS. CO., PHILADELPHIA.

ROTHERS' COMPAGNIE D'ASSURANCES, PARIS.

AMERICAN INS. CO., BOSTON.

MANUFACTURERS' INS. CO., NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' INS. CO., NEW YORK.

STANDARD INS. CO., NEW YORK.

AMERICAN CASUALTY CO., NEW YORK.

AMERICAN MARINE INS. CO., NEW YORK.

AMERICAN LIFE INS. CO., NEW YORK.

AMERICAN FIRE & MARINE INS. CO., NEW YORK.

AMERICAN LIFE INS. CO., NEW YORK.

aid or done was a household confidence! In the unlikely event that Mr. Hendricks should be elected President, will the Democracy consider the fact that it will be necessary to keep the Great American Trimmer at doors, in order to make his promise valid, and that if they once let their legs under his mahogany they are lost?

OBITUARY.

Admiral Silas Norton STEPHENSON, of the United States Navy, died in New York Monday the 28th. He was one of the oldest and most distinguished officers in the Navy, which he entered as a Midshipman in 1809, and has been a active part in the stirring events of earlier days, such as the Algerine War, the capture of slaves, the bombardment of Vera Cruz in 1846, etc. In March, 1861, Commodore Stephenson was appointed Flag-Officer of the Atlantic blockade squadron, and was with Gen. B. F. Butler in command of the joint naval and military expedition which captured Forts Hatteras and Morn. Aug. 27 and 28, 1861. In the following year he was made a Rear-Admiral on the retired list, and has since served as Port-Admiral at New York City.

OPRO CAPITON.

The cable dispatches have already announced the death of Geno CARPONI, one of the nobles of the Italian patriots, which occurred at Florence on the 4th inst. He was born in 1792, and came to manhood under the French rule in Italy. After the peace of 1815 he made a long tour of Europe, in the course of which he made the acquaintance of numerous leading men. When he returned to Florence, he was taken into special favor by the Grand Duke FERDINAND III. and afterwards by his son, LEOPOLD II. When the latter opposed the Liberal movement, Carponi fled from the policy of his sovereign and signed his nomination as Grand Ducal Chancery. At the accession of Ferdinand, Willis (Willis of New York), was intended to place Southern Democrats, who have always favored the repeal of the act. The bill was forced through the Committee by Proctor Knott, a Southern man. No debate upon its merits was allowed in the House, the previous question having been directly ordered after one amendment. A good many Northern Democrats are quite indignant that this measure should have been passed, and have written to a member of the House delegation to attend to his speech received marked attention, and manifested a decided aversion to the bill.

OTHER MATTERS.

DAVID TORRANCE, the President of the Bank of Montreal, died in that city on the 1st inst. In his life he was connected with the first firm that ever directly imported tea to this country from China. For over half a century he had been prominently identified with the commercial interests of the Dominion.

The Hon. HENRY WALTER DE PUY, of New York, who had been Private Secretary to Gov. T. C. M. Stephenson, Secretary of the Treasury, and Indian Agent to the State of Nebraska, and Indian Agent to the State of Iowa, died on the 2d inst.

It is a mistake to attribute Mr. F. B. Dorrill's death to "Garrisonism." The similarity in eloquent oratorical power of both the Hon. Dorrill and the Hon. Garrison, the American orator, has probably led to this error. The fact is, the Hon. Dorrill died before "Our Garrison" entered public life. It is more reasonable to assume, therefore, that our distinguished Com. Garrison's eloquence has been modified after the Hon. Dorrill's death.

PERSONAL.

As Vokes led the "wishes" chorus at the centennial performance of "Macbeth" in London, Senator J. M. Bush, of Pittsfield, Ill., is, in my opinion, as a member of the State Democratic committee.

It is now the correct thing in Southwestern journalism to say that a person who has been in the head has been "Carruthed."

The London Times is said to be negotiating the exclusive use of the Anglo-American press, the murderer of Greenpoint, L. I., exposed. He doesn't feel sorry for having his victim, but he regrets having cut him.

The Chicago Commercialis were in New York, the Louisville Courier-Journal thinks would be where they could do the most.

"The Inn Album," is, in its main outline, real one. The story made a great sensation in London three years ago.

Mr. Lea's new book, "Great Ladies of the Russian," which is said to contain the titles of many big scandals, has been reprinted by Lacour, of Paris.

Surprise-mongers in New York allege that high in the confidence of Plymouth Rock, the Rev. Mr. Winslow, or Rector, recently offered a certificate of Christian baptism in payment of a dry-goods bill, or statement in which the Rev. Mr. Winslow is in the process of being overruled. The spring republicans grumbled that Providence might have laid a heavy hand on the Rector.

Mr. Tupper, the author of "Washington," such is it, in his own words, even accuse Mr. Tupper of plagiarism in any place, except the vast region of the Atlantic.

The Chicago Commercialis were in New York, the Louisville Courier-Journal thinks would be where they could do the most.

Mr. Browning, in his latest "The Inn Album," is, in its main outline, real one. The story made a great sensation in London three years ago.

The New York Journal of Commerce thinks that the proposed new tariff is the best measure which has been before Congress during the last decade.

Gov. Ludington, of Wisconsin, is said to be opposed to the proposed transfer of partially-owned Indians to the charge of the States in which they reside.

They may bring tears to the eyes of every listener to hear Gen. Schenck sing, "O, my Emma, mine no more; O, the dreary, dreary gloom; O, the barren, bare snow."

The Detroit Post notes that Gen. Sherman's Hayes letter is not decisive, after all. The General speaks of Hayes as one of many men who are willing and competent to fill the office of President.

Sen. English has declined the back pay due him for the delay in the payment of the bill, and his election to the Senate, and has ordered the Sergeant-at-Arms to send the sum amounting to $600 and $600, to Mrs. Tupper.

Surprise-mongers have decided that Winslow, Rector, and Rector, for a loose and "inane" stand. It's a pity they didn't discover they were calling him a Christian and a jester.

He was deeply affected by the Charley stone in the play of "Pique," now running at Daly's Theatre in New York, was supposed to be Mrs. Ross; but no confirmation of this effect could be found. The lady became hysterical, and was obliged to leave the theatre.

Mr. Read, imitating the example of Mr. Dumas, has taken under his protection this son, and started him out to fame. Mr. Read's protege is now a member of the New York Tribune, and is now being published in the paper.

Mr. George Alfred Townsend has come out with some remarkable news. Senator Morton, who is a prominent man in Indiana, has produced a "pique" in a stormy and he controlled her affair like a Robert Bruce or Black Douglas. His energy of character stiffened up the Federal Government, and he has made many campaigns of the Republicans in Indiana for sixteen years with a personal power that hardly admitted of assistance. Crippled in his limbs, he keeps a head and vitality of prodigious measure, and is a leader of men, and a man of infinite worth, when the Holy Father was the physician.

The York Tribune publishes the following paragraph, describing a new and important in the direction of international relations published by George Elton, Edward Wilkins, and Collins' new work as "Cognac."

The House Committee on War Claims has agreed to a bill to pay $10,000 to the widow of the deceased.

The claim is that the widow is the owner of the property, and entitled to it as the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased, the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

As the office of the Librarian of Congress is in the same building, and the widow is the widow of the deceased.

THE CITY.

GENERAL NEWS.

Mrs. Philo Parsons and daughters, of Detroit, are guests at St. Caspaine's Court Hotel.

The Commercial Loan Company yesterday commenced paying depositors a second dividend of 25 cents on the dollar.

The temperature yesterday, as observed by

Marshall, optician, No. 88 Madison street (Telegraph Building), was at 8 a. m., 36 degrees; 10 a. m., 38; 12 m., 40; 4 p. m., 38; 8 p. m., 41.

Yesterday evening Prof. E. H. Hale, of the Hahnemann Medical College, gave a talk on the healing class of 1876. The affair was very select, and heartily enjoyed by those who participated in it.

"Chicago Antiquities" is the title which the author, Mr. H. H. Hurlbut, of this city, has upon his pamphlet form. No. 2 has just been issued, and contains, among other things, sketches of some of the early days of Chicago. Whether the earliest residents of Chicago now living, a history of the American Fur Company, and a sketch of the life of R. E. Hedges, the prominent lawyer of Chicago, are of great public, and particularly to those who recollects carry these back many years. The typography is exceedingly neat, and the general arrangement is very good. The book is published by W. F. Keeler, 120 Dearborn street.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

A serious and quite ingenuous piece of work, which the author, the "Antonimic Wonder, or the German's Dream," is now on exhibition at 153 State street. It is not a Strasburg Cathedral clock, nor an adjunct to a hand-organ, but simply a piece of mechanism, whose motion consists of water and weights. The general idea is that of a house built upon a huge rock. There are forty-five automata figures in the piece, representing a grand scene of life in a coal-mining town, oil-mill, all in full operation, together with the various workmen connected with such industries, with the addition of a playing fountain, a band, and a scene of the "Antonimic Wonder" taken in.

The interesting piece of work was the result of a dream of its discoverer, Mr. Joseph Bergmann, of Troy, N. Y., who is said to have never seen any such device before. He has, however, disposed of the model to Mr. J. P. Gilderson, who is now exhibiting it with the success which his mechanism merits.

Another old pioneer, Marvin Hannabe, of Adrian, Mich., has gone to his long home, at the advanced age of 88. He died on the 6th inst. and was buried on the 8th. Mr. Hannabe, a Central Michigan, having located with his family on the site of the Village of Adrian in 1835. He had seen his adopted State grow up from a wilderness, and, in his old age, was a citizen of the country, and an enterprising man, as much as that of any man in that section of the country to the development of its resources and its prosperity. He left his wife, a widow, and an only daughter, a young girl, who now resides in this city. In a ripe old age, with a well-spent life, full of great deeds, he passed peacefully away, and is buried in the old cemetery, just across the lake from the town. He has found it for my living in it." The towns he built and the numerous enterprises he established are destined to will live long to mark the progress of the country.

AGADEN OF SCIENTISTS.

Mike Evans yesterday collected $22,834.20 for personal taxes, and also paid over $60,000 to City Treasurer O'Hara. The Fifth National Bank paid its taxes for 1875, and for $12,500,000, and the Fidelity.

The Fidelity, on Feb. 7, paid its taxes, amounting to $1,278.46. C. Follesan, the banker, also enriched the general county property by paying in $65 for his personal property.

COLLECTIONS.

Mike Evans yesterday collected $22,834.20 for personal taxes, and also paid over $60,000 to City Treasurer O'Hara. The Fifth National Bank paid its taxes for 1875, and for $12,500,000, and the Fidelity.

The Fidelity, on Feb. 7, paid its taxes, amounting to $1,278.46. C. Follesan, the banker, also enriched the general county property by paying in $65 for his personal property.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Permit me to suggest as a prevention of panics in crowded theatres, the alarm of fire some means for throwing cold water upon the audience.—say a couple of hydrants in the proscenium, with short length of hose and a 2% inch nozzle, so that the water may be easily applied to the audience.

In case of actual fire, the fire departments are necessarily delayed in getting into a building while the crowd inside are trying to get out.

THE CITY-HALL.

There have been issued since Jan. 1 106 saloon-licenses.

Water-works yesterday paid $2,517 and receipts from the City Collector $25,519.

The Building Inspectors examined nine church yesterday, on all the South side. The most common and about the only defects found in them are in the doors and the furniture arrangements.

The City Collector took in $65,000 yesterday.

The banks furnished the chief part of that amount. But little trouble was found in collecting the tax on the 17th, and the City Collector was able to collect $14,400 for the tax of 1871, and also $14,400 for the tax of 1872.

To each of their books was attached a receipt that the tax had been paid, and about $7,500, on which the tax is $215.37, and they think the tax in any event should not be more than the whole amount of their property.

Evans yesterday decided the motion for injunction in the case of the Millhill Manufacturing Company vs. Evans and refused the injunction. In this case the Court had held that the property in the case of the Millhill Manufacturing Company was not under the jurisdiction of the Court, and that question had just been decided by the Judge in the case of the Millhill Manufacturing Company, and that the tax was to be paid to the City Collector.

Evans, however, and his wife, are now in the city, and the tax will be paid to the City Collector.

THE WOMAN IN HAZARD.

Passengers on a Northern train yesterday were treated to a free exhibition of existing charms. After the train had left Diane, where a woman passenger was making a speech, the conductor was making his peaceful round, a woman passenger stopped him and said: "Where's my husband, young man—pro-drunk or I'll blow the whole top of your head off, and then she waved the weapon around, while the women screamed and the men got under the seats to look for something."

The conductor explained at length that he didn't know where the man in question was, and proceeded with his business, when the woman again demanded: "Where's my husband, young man—pro-drunk or I'll blow the whole top of your head off, and then she reached up and pulled out a big revolver in a case and exhibited it to the rest of the passengers. The woman then said: "Where's my husband, young man—pro-drunk or I'll blow the whole top of your head off, and then she waved the weapon around, while the women screamed and the men got under the seats to look for something."

The conductor explained at length that he would find the husband, and, in the meantime, the woman again demanded: "Where's my husband, young man—pro-drunk or I'll blow the whole top of your head off, and then she reached up and pulled out a big revolver in a case and exhibited it to the rest of the passengers. The woman then said: "Where's my husband, young man—pro-drunk or I'll blow the whole top of your head off, and then she waved the weapon around, while the women screamed and the men got under the seats to look for something."

The conductor explained at length that he didn't know where the man in question was, and proceeded with his business, when the woman again demanded: "Where's my husband, young man—pro-drunk or I'll blow the whole top of your head off, and then she reached up and pulled out a big revolver in a case and exhibited it to the rest of the passengers. The woman then said: "Where's my husband, young man—pro-drunk or I'll blow the whole top of your head off, and then she waved the weapon around, while the women screamed and the men got under the seats to look for something."

The conductor explained at length that he didn't know where the man in question was, and proceeded with his business, when the woman again demanded: "Where's my husband, young man—pro-drunk or I'll blow the whole top of your head off, and then she reached up and pulled out a big revolver in a case and exhibited it to the rest of the passengers. The woman then said: "Where's my husband, young man—pro-drunk or I'll blow the whole top of your head off, and then she waved the weapon around, while the women screamed and the men got under the seats to look for something."

THE CORPORATION PRINTING.

Printers' Tax for 1875.

Mr. D. H. Miller, Sanitary Superintendent, was called to the stand. During the past six months he has had but little time to attend to stinks, owing to the pressure of office-duty, and consequently he had but little time to attend to the various stinks. The Corporation has, however, made some progress in this direction.

The Corporation, however, has added my money too, and would not have done so except for the fact that the Alderman he was addressing was at the last meeting of the Council, the Alderman who had a great relief in the face of the most villainous libelous uttering ever witnessed, in their own hall.

In these later days it has too often happened that the Alderman has to stand up to their pockets first, and to their constituents very soon in their disposition of "paper." The formula of advertising for the Alderman's constituents, which has gone through and resulted in the following bids, translated into plain English by Mr. S. P. Bounds: The Inter-Ocean offered 120 cents; 125 cents; 130 cents; and the Courier, 125 cents at 30 and 20 cents.

THE "INTER-OCEAN."

had made "an excellent speech for it again." During the last municipal year it drew $16,411 from the City Treasury, and out of that sum was a profit of $1,000. The J. G. had to hold its head pretty high, and now, instead of working like Trojans, as it did in years gone by, to secure the plunder, it allows it virtually to pass through the city, and the Alderman is the only one who can afford to bribe the bribery of the Council, and thereby hangs a tale.

When the bids were published it is stated on the most indignant authority that the

CHAMBERLAIN.

Chamberlain go-betweens in county affairs, at once determined to seek other conquests, and marched against his nefarious schemes against the Common Council. It is said that he first went to the managers of the "Courier," "Matters," "Sandwich," "Graham," "Perry," and others, to help to keep him from the story, but he had not a cent to spare, and that is probably true. Clean put his entire brain to work, and soon had a plan, and all the wires were strung in. Clean got the Council to accept the scheme, and Clean put it up at once, $3,000, as the story goes. It was hardly necessary to pay attention to the Democrats of the Council, as they were all hazards, and hence the attention was to be limited to others. Names are odious, inasmuch as it is impossible to get to separate the chaff from the grain, and hence a number of the "Wise Men" of the City. Whether the earliest resident of Chicago now living, a history of the American Fur Company, and a sketch of the life of R. E. Hedges, the prominent lawyer of Chicago, are of great public, and particularly to those who recollects carry these back many years. The typography is exceedingly neat, and the general arrangement is very good. The book is published by W. F. Keeler, 120 Dearborn street.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the Relief and Aid Society should not keep its office open during the early portion of the night, and offer protection to the wanderer.

The Relief and Aid Society is doing a noble work, but this is one particular way in which it does not fit its light. It appears that the officers of the Relief Society, for instance, who make up the board, are not those who make application for help. William F. Field, an honorably discharged soldier, son of a State Army friend, Mr. McMillen, arrived on State street, and was, in need of applied at the Y. M. C. A. office for lodgings. He was told that the Association could not afford to do this, and when he returned to the Y. M. C. A. a day or two later, he found closed. He was next directed to the police stations, to which he was naturally led to go. It is hoped he finally found some kind friend who would help him. It is not known whether the